

PROLOG

Since the founding of DRAHPO GmbH in 1977, we have set ourselves the task of continually satisfying the constantly growing requirements of the international market through our sales and production program.

In close co-operation with leading producers of welding consumables and manufacturers of further processing equipment, we have succeeded in setting standards for the coiling, straightening and cutting of welding filler materials.

Orders of domestic and foreign welding wire producers for the production of coil coils, as well as cutting, cutting and stamping confirm our know-how in this field.

We are specialists for the weldable presentation of all welding consumables for manual welding and soldering up to the most modern welding machine and welding robot.

An extensive storage of our products in all alloying areas and for all applied welding processes allows short-term delivery.

The welding consumables are examined by national and international approval companies. The company has quality assurance in accordance with the applicable VdTÜV 1153 codes and a quality assurance system according to EN 12074.

Furthermore, our welding technicians are at your disposal for individual advice regarding the application, selection and handling of our products.

DRAHPO GmbH has been running a continuous growth process since 1977 and is one of the most important suppliers in Germany with its sales volume.

We would be delighted if we could convince you of our performance.
